BOYS LACROSSE

The Boys' Lacrosse Team proved they meant business again in 1986. Led by coach Dan Kane and such players as Bill Carroll and George Joseph, the boys varsity team excelled in a very competitive season. The strong point of this year's team was defense, supported by goalie Bill Carroll and captain Michael Murphy. Its weakness was inexperience. However, according to junior John Steiger, who played attack, the team did a good job rebuilding itself after losing many seniors last year. Returning Lax players are looking forward to an even stronger team next year and hoping to avenge this year's losses to Connecticut and private schools.

The J.V. team also had an impressive record this season with only 1 loss. The team maintained a good attitude and worked well together. There were many players such as John Rampone, Michael Sweet, and John Dugan who displayed promise as future Varsity players. As coach Kane said, "Having gained ten titles in 15 years, the Longmeadow Boys' Lacrosse team is the most successful sport in L.H.S. Their record speaks for itself and this year is no exception."

GIRLS LACROSSE

This year was a new beginning for the girls' Varsity lacrosse team. After losing six seniors, the team made a great effort to rebuild. The players had to change into new positions, and adjust to a new setup.

Returning seniors were captains Melanie Wass, Abby Roth, and Chris Atkins. Under their leadership and that of fifth year coach Kathy Parker, the team improved tremendously. Two key players were Chris Atkins as attack wing and Kiara McGuinness on defense. Hillary Stone and Cathy Moran should also strengthen the team in future years. The final record was 4-10. Joleen Carey summed up the season: "Our team had a lot of fun and spirit throughout the whole season no matter what happened."

The junior Varsity team, under the supervision of coach Maureen Parker, finished with a record of 5-8. One team member felt they "improved steadily from the beginning."

The strength and dedication of the J.V. members should be welcomed by the varsity team next year. Look for the girls' lax team to uphold the tradition of excellence in Longmeadow lacrosse.

The Girls Varsity softball team, led by coach Ann Simons, played well this year with a record of 11 wins, 7 losses. The strength of this year's team seemed to be its defense. Its weakness, according to coach Simons, was in the team's "mental toughness".

The Varsity Team had some outstanding players such as senior Joanne Kotwicki who was strong on offense, senior Amy Blanchard who had a great record of RBI's and junior Carol Meador, one of the best pitchers in the league. Other senior players included Kate Boehm, Heather Anderson, and Patty Mentor. Junior Maria Sicliano said although they, "will be losing some good players the team should do well next year!"

Under the leadership of coach Denise Cardona and with able players such as Tanya Alsberg at shortstop, Amy Rickless as pitcher, and Stacy Simons as catcher, the young J.V. team gained the experience and learned the skills which will enable it to be an even better, stronger team for next season.

BASEBALL

That great American pas-time — baseball — was back again at LHS. Led by coach Michael Deary, the boys' team finished the season with a 13-5 record, thus qualifying for the Western Mass. tournament.

The strong pitching of senior members Steve Grippo, Glen Godin, and Tim Wright proved to be an asset this year. Juniors adding strength to the team were second baseman Erik Mandell and pitcher Cliff Soukup.

Favoring defense, they tried to put the best nine players out on the field. The team also concentrated on the mental aspect of the game. Deary described them as a "close knit team. They all pulled for each other; no one was selfish."

J.V., coached by Mr. Gary O'Sullivan, wrapped up the year with a 15-3 record. One team member commented, "Because we were a very loose and easy team, we were able to win under pressure".

Coach Roger LeBlanc felt three wins at the end of the season "showed what the freshmen were capable of". They finished with a 7-6 record.

GIRLS TRACK

The girls' track team at LHS began their victorious season in March and carried their momentum through May. Diversified strengths and unity were the keys to success. With five wins and three losses, the team ended their season in an outstanding fashion. The team worked together as one, an unusual accomplishment for an individual sport. First-year coach Terri Ellis and captains Beth White, Tonia Ouellette, and Melanie Breslaw were a tremendous aid to the team's success.

"The team's individual strength pulled us together to give us the support we needed to make this our best year yet," said one player. Team members provided much of this strength in a variety of events such as the 440 relay manned by Beth White, Sharon Mauri, Johnny Perry, and Tanya Parker.

Other seniors on the team were Katherine Casey, Rachel Gilman, Amy Grey, and Katherine Stackhouse. Future seniors sure to continue this tradition of excellence and perseverance include Laura Tremble, Lori Odierna, and Rishona Teres.

BOYS TRACK

The following is another Longmeadow sports story with a happy ending. This year, the Longmeadow High School Boys' Track Team finished their most successful season in six years. The team worked hard and says coach Joe Dutsar, "focused on individual improvement" which was a key factor to their success. "In the past, the track team has seen a lot of hard times; this year is an example of how hard work finally pays off." This must be true because twelve team members qualified for Western Mass.

Outstanding seniors from the team included sprinters Andy Duessel and Paul Lang, hurdler Mark Henshaw, and triple jumper Jay Withgott, high jumper Marvin Lyon, and javelin thrower Joe Reichert. Seniors Kevin Traub, Paul Moran and Brian Shukan helped maintain the standard of excellence. And the talent did not end there. Outstanding juniors were Mark Rigby in the 880 yard run, javelin thrower Rich Wiseman, and hurdler Charlie Laub. Disc thrower Mark Casey, pole vaulter Ben Falk, long jumper Kyle Kisiel, and triple jumper Eric Watts also show promise.

With so much talent the team's outlook for next year looks even better.

TENNIS

For the boys' tennis team, this season's effort paid off. Under the guidance of coach William Kirkpatrick, they made an outstanding showing this year. Their 10-1 record was the best in Western Massachusetts. While all 14 players played in at least one match, the top players were freshmen Daryl Ruark and Josh Shifrin. The doubles teams, which never lost during the entire season, were a major strength. The most successful pair was junior Steve Titus and senior Dan Teree.

The girls' Varsity team, coached by David Daniels, excelled again this year. The girls were undefeated in every match! The top singles player this year was senior foreign exchange student, Katya Sadowski, who played consistently well. Second year Varsity player, sophomore Maria Cacciaputi added strength to the team. Sophomores Neela Thakur and Sharon Rencus filled the position of number one doubles team.

Although there was a junior Varsity team at Longmeadow High School, most of the schools in the surrounding area did not have one. The members, therefore, played practice matches against lower ranked Varsity players in order to gain experience.

GOLF

When one thinks of golf one generally pictures a few "elderly" men put-putting around a country club golf course either with a golf cart or a caddy trailing behind in the hot sun. At LHS, however, the scene is not so stereotypical. Under the experienced guidance of Coach Manheim the team excelled this season.

The coach said that although they were a "young team" they were "very hard-working." Pat Mills was their number one player. Seniors Ralph Loss and Scott Gales were the two other key players. The team consisted of four freshmen and four upper-classmen. They ended the season with a 12-4 record and placed fifth at Western Mass.

So in the future look out for the LHS golf team. The GHQ better keep a good watch on them too, because one of these golfers may be ready for the Open - next year.

PLAY

The senior class play is a key event in helping to unite the senior class, and this year's production of "Dracula Baby" was no exception. "The great amount of time we put into the show really helped bring the class together. The cast was a good one in that it was enthusiastic and cooperative. In addition, a lot of hidden talent was discovered," explained Rachael Gilman, director. The play was produced by Jason Levine and choreographed by Elise Weiner.

The saga told of the unrequited love of Dracula for a woman, and of a nurse for Dracula. After endless singing and seduction, however, the nurse finally won Dracula's devotion. They moved, happily, back to Transylvania.

The play ended, as always, with a great cast party, which brought the cast and crew members together. We congratulate the seniors on a job well done.

The Senior Banquet: another exciting Senior Week event held at Chez Josef in Agawam. The seniors braved the rain on that June fifth night to share in the festivities.

Class advisors, Mr. Hirsch and Mr. Conway, each gave fond farewell speeches. Mr. Teixeira spoke; then Mr. Lynch, who said that the seniors were giving the best class gift ever to Belchertown High in the form of a new principal. Realizing that Mr. Pike had entered L.H.S. with them and would leave with them too, the class of 1986 gave him a standing ovation.

Class comedians, Steve Creelman and Jason Levine, emceed the evening and announced the class ballot results. Everyone will remember the Class Reckless Driver, Mark Carroll's famous last words, "Does anyone need a ride home tonight?"

Elise Wiener and Michael Mann, the Masacksic Editors-in-Chief, then announced the dedication of the yearbook to Mr. Conway. Massive confusion followed as the Seniors anxiously rushed forward to receive their yearbooks.

The last event of the evening was the nostalgic slide show. The class song, "Good Lovin'", and other favorite tunes accompanied the presentation. The banquet ended at 10:00, but the night was still young. It was on to Roller World to party the way only Seniors can!

AWARDS

After several days of intense marching practice, the Longmeadow class of '86 entered the gymnasium for the last time to the beat of the brass choir and thunderous applause. Junior marshalls Kim Roberts and John Steiger led the procession down the aisles to their seats of honor. Honor was the purpose of this gathering - to give well-deserved awards and recognition to almost 200 Longmeadow students.

The assembly began by honoring several promising juniors with book awards given by colleges. Each department within the school then gave their respective awards, mostly to outstanding seniors, but also to a few select underclassmen. Coach Robert D'Agostino and Judy Bouley gave the sports trophies to two senior boys and two senior girls who had shown tremendous athletic and academic ability as well as sportsmanship during their years at LHS.

A new award was given this year in the memory of Noel Burke. The recipient, Jay Withgott, showed tremendous interest in the school and his academic studies.

The 1986 Awards Assembly was a happy occasion, yet it was sad to see the seniors, all of whom deserve recognition, in the LHS gymnasium for the last time.

The night freshmen think will never arrive because four years seems an eternity, the night everyone awaits with anxious intensity, the night no one forgets, the highlight of Senior Week - The Prom.

This year's prom was graced by the presence of the class of 1986. After weeks of changing gowns, tuxedos, dinner reservations, corsages, and of course dates, the ballroom at the Marriot Hotel received this year's glowing seniors. The D.J. from WCCC FM, otherwise known as the Lich, M.C.'ed the whole affair and provided music to which everyone "jammed".

Afterward all the guests attended "quiet little gatherings" to celebrate the end of their high school career. Later on in the morning people enjoyed breakfast perhaps at someone's house home or Denny's. The gala certainly upheld the tradition of the Senior Prom at LHS. It was definitely a night to remember.

GRADUATION

Sun replaced the rain that had plagued senior week allowing an outdoor graduation for the class of 1986. Humidity was high as were spirits on June eighth, the day that 276 seniors had anticipated for four years.

The commencement ceremony began with class president, Michael Murphy's address of welcome. Mike stressed the outstanding achievements of the Class of '86, noting their excellence in a variety of areas. He praised the mature leadership position the seniors took in dealing with the various problems of the '85-'86 school year.

Guest speaker, Ms. Adele Simmons, President of Hampshire College, filled her speech with anecdotes in order to convey her message. She discussed the importance of living life to the fullest: making commitments and taking risks.

Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Robert McKanna and Principal Angelo Teixeira both reinforced Mike's discussion of maturity and success of this Senior class. The class gift was then presented, new curtains for the auditorium.

Following the distribution of the diplomas, Mr. Teixeira declared the Class of 1986 official graduates of L.H.S. Caps flew in the air as the class jumped from their seats, anxious to meet the challenges of their new lives.

STUDENT LIFE

The music and drama departments at LHS had one of their best years yet. The orchestra could not have made such an outstanding showing without seniors Kirsten Allison, Andrea Goodman, Amy Grey, and Christen Hoagland. The bands outdid themselves with help from all 120 members. "All of the performing groups reached an equally high level of excellence".

Drama Club was "successful due to the experience of the seniors", advisor Michael Mucci said. The "Good Doctor" was awarded fifth place at the state level in March, and the one act plays in May proved to be as successful.

The three main choral groups all performed to their highest ability. Directors Michael Mucci and Peter Thompson said that they all worked together to achieve their professionalism.

The town congregated on the green once again to see the many exhibits at Longmeadowe Days. LHS Key Club and Keyettes raised money from their booths and the band struck up the annual parade. Student life thrived this year at LHS.

There is No Substitute

Choosing a theme can be a difficult task. It must unify the yearbook as well as describe the students who make up the class. However, in this case, the job could not have been any easier. Our class has a unique blend of academic and athletic superiority, unmatched by any class thus far. These two pages represent how many things, in our everyday lives, have either been replaced or modified. This is not possible for our class because . . .

There is No Substitute
For the class of '86

There is No Substitute For Our Advisors

I have been asked, as your class advisor for the past four years, to convey an insightful, meaningful, as well as nonverbose message to the class. I assume that this message has the dual function of both setting the tone of the yearbook, as well as providing an outlet for a few thoughts on my behalf.

Ten, twenty, or thirty years from now your L.H.S. experiences; academic, social and emotional, will all seem rather insignificant, and most will be forgotten. This yearbook may be your only reminder of some of those pleasurable and/or meaningful experiences. It may be a sporting event, a specific teacher, club activity, class or friendship which will stand out years from now as you thumb through these pages.

Take a moment right now. Reflect back over the past four years. Decide which events stand out and identify those which have added to your growth, and enjoyment of life. Determine what has been important to you and let this be a guide in seeking out new experiences that will be meaningful.

Good luck to you all and keep in touch,
Ron Hirsch

If I can offer a few words of advice to you as you get ready to leave Longmeadow High School, it is this: get to know yourself, with all of your strengths as well as your limitations. To begin to understand who you are is also to become responsible for your actions and to become responsible for your shortcomings. This sense of oneself will allow you to go out into the world and build honest and lasting relationships, to reach for that greatness that is in each of you, and in the process to find inner peace. The Renaissance poet, architect, and philosopher, Leon Battista Alberti said, "You can do all things if you will." Get to know yourself and you will be on your way toward making a better world for yourself and for those whose lives touch yours.

Raymond J. McKenna

Most people who write an article like this one fully realize that it will be read by many people when the yearbook is initially distributed, but very infrequently indeed after that. Keeping this fact in mind, I offer the following for your consideration, now, as well as in the future.

Like most institutions that deal with people in groups, Longmeadow High School attempts to operate on a foundation based in a seeming paradox. That paradox can be summarized in the phrase, "In discipline there lies freedom". What L.H.S. attempts to do, aside from conveying blocks of content matter, is to instill in its students an understanding of and appreciation for the necessity of a degree of self-denial as a requirement for success. In order to do well, at whatever it is that you do, but particularly in a group activity, you must be willing to subordinate your own needs, concerns, and desires if your participation is to be worthwhile.

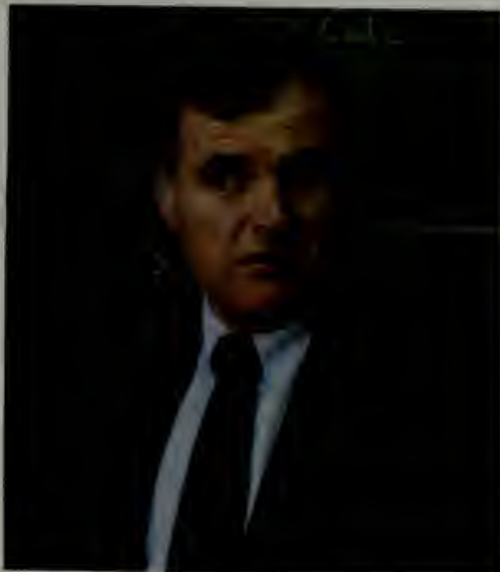

The activities of a class are most appropriate indeed for the development of this understanding. In summary, it is the major reason I have served as one of your class advisors. At some time in the future, when you read this whether for information or nostalgia, I hope that you will see some positive effects, some value, in your experiences as a member of the class of '86.

I have enjoyed working with you and knowing you during your stay with us. Keep in touch.

Fondly,
Mr. Conway

Dedication

MARTIN CONWAY

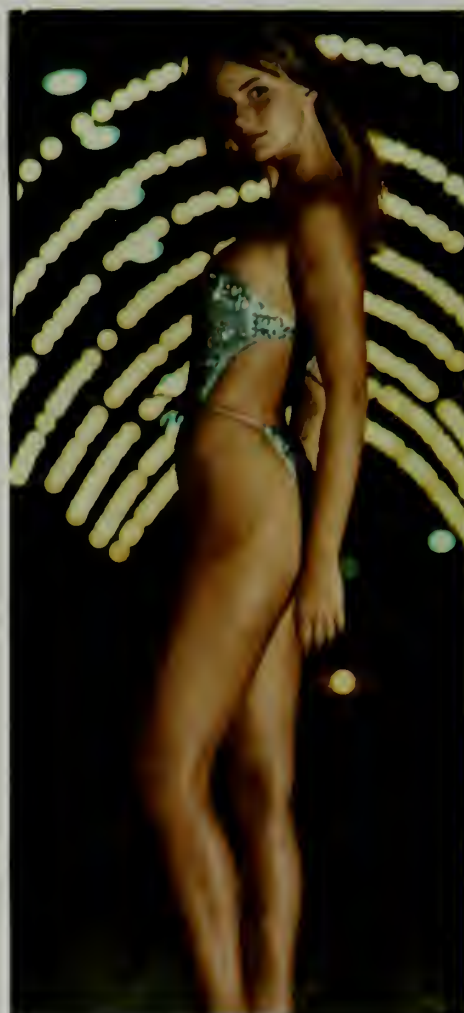

It is our great pleasure to dedicate the 30th Anniversary Edition of Masacksic to Mr. P. Martin Conway. Not only has he been a fantastic Calculus teacher to many of us, but has also become a great friend. He graciously accepted the role of class advisor for us during our junior year and has made our senior year a memorable one. His humor has helped each of us make the transition from high school senior to college freshman a little easier. The mutual friendship and guidance he has shown us will never be forgotten.

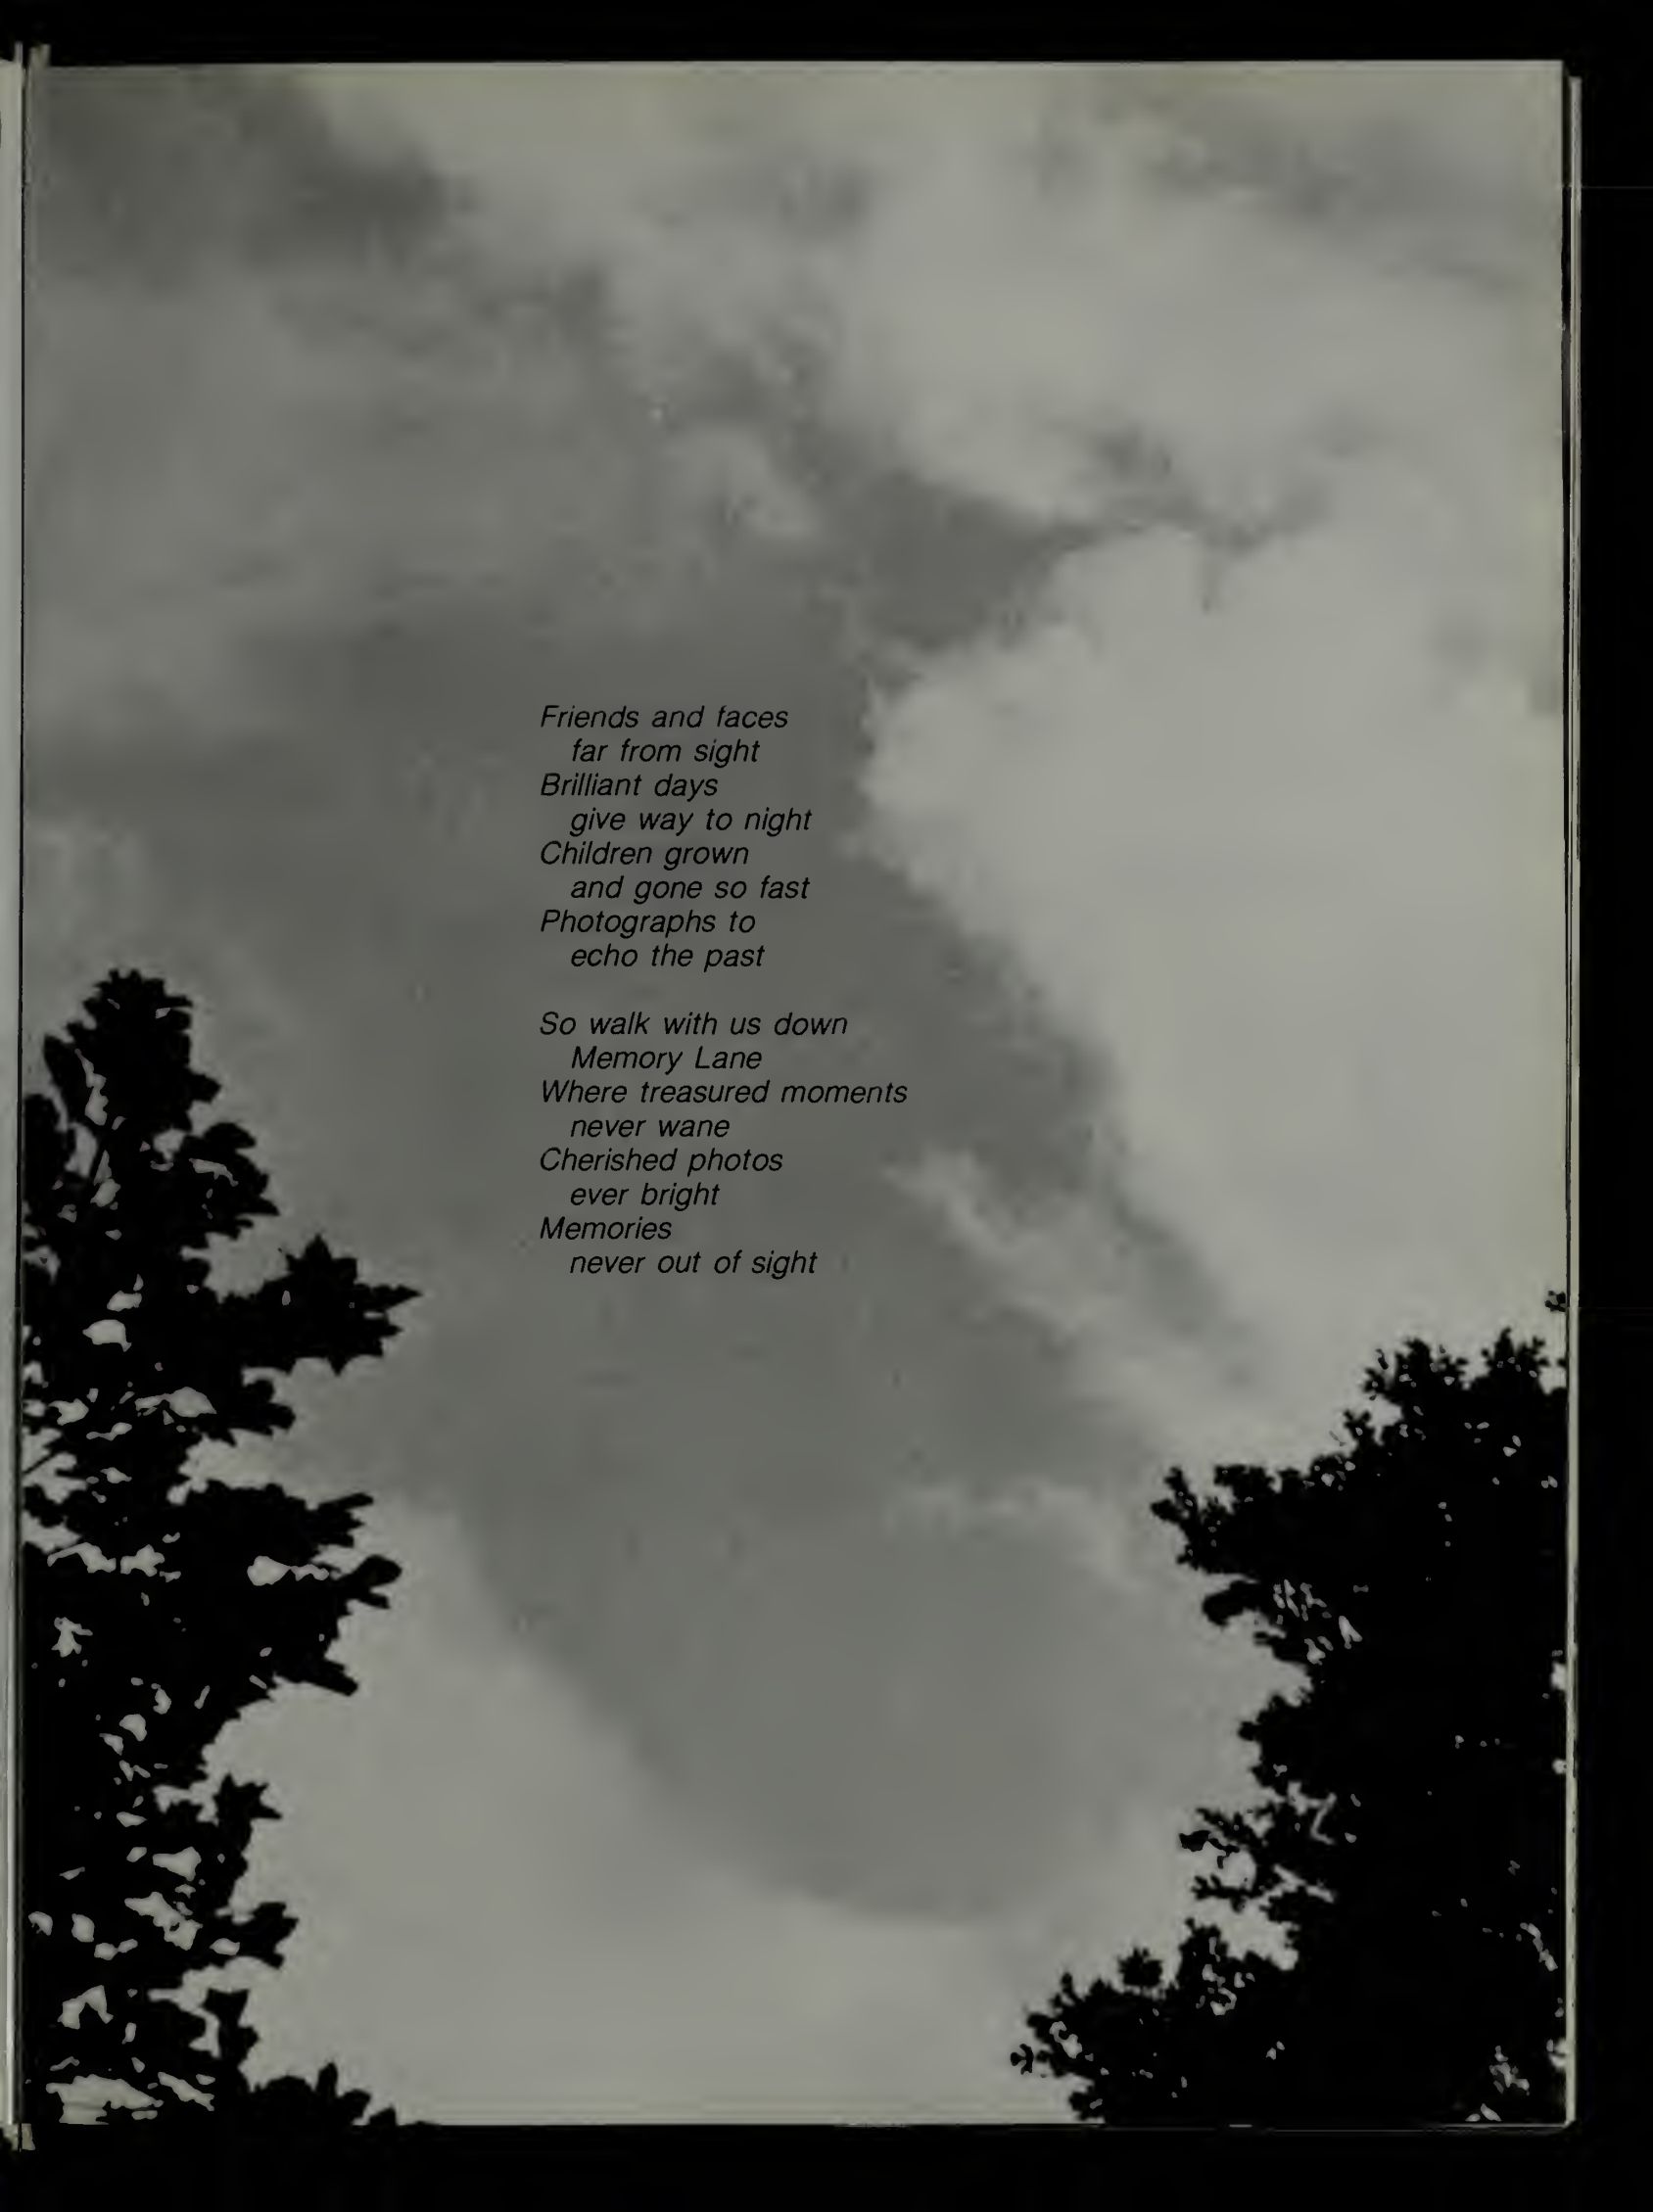

Good luck always,
The Class of 1986

1986 MASACKSIC XXX RATED

1986 is a very special year at Longmeadow High School. It marks the 30th edition of Masacksic, the 30th anniversary of National Honor Society, now the longest running organization of the school, and the 30th graduating class to pass through these halls, the Class of 1986. Over these three decades we have seen many things come and go, most of them captured in past year-books. Fads, fashion, public figures, and the style of life have all changed to some extent. Nowadays women wear bikinis like those modeled in Sports Illustrated, boys drive $20,000 sports cars, and everyone owns a computer. Even the once pure image of Miss America has been tarnished by the explicit photos of Vanessa Williams. Times sure have changed.

Goodbye my friends
 so sad to see you go Don't cry, nor shall I
 our memories will last forever
 Look ahead to the future
 you will find excitement and hope
 I will miss you
 ... you being there and me here
 but before either of us know it
 We will be together again talking and sharing
 Our new adventures and findings
 So ...
 Take care and I shall too
 Goodbye my friends
 I will see you soon.

"Sparks flew in the Daisy-Weed game!"

WHAT? Daisy-Weed Football Game

WHERE? Longmeadow football stadium

WHEN? November 23, 1985

WHY? This game has become one of Longmeadow High's great traditions.

On this cold day in late autumn, the Weeds excelled and rallied to a 22 - 8 victory. Coached by Steve Grippo, Tim Stelzer, Joe Massa, Keith Silvestri, and Alvin Paige, the Weeds practiced for weeks before the game with the help of advisor Mr. Kirkpatrick. Daisy coaches Bob Gianelli, Marc Carroll, Ed Corrigan, George Joseph, and Mike Murphy trained their team through numerous practices without the assistance of an advisor.

Both teams exhibited excellent ability and sportsmanship after weeks of pre-game rivalry. Cries of "Smoke them Weeds!" and "Pluck them Daisies!" rang through the halls of Longmeadow High School.

Another tradition, that of the lovely male(?) cheerleaders, was also upheld in addition to a parade of class floats held at half-time. The entire day added to the feelings of spirit and unity in the Class of '86.

Nothing will ever mean tomorrow
What it did today.

How do you say goodbye
to a friend?
It isn't easy
Do you smile and say
"So long pal, it's been nice knowing you"? or ...
Do you shuffle and sob
And try to hold back the tears and say "I'll miss you"?
How do you say goodbye
to a friend?
Or do you?

Graduation Day

The day has come
 I'm ready to move on
 We're all waiting to hear
 The graduation song
 We all look so tired
 It's been a long week
 The prom, the banquet-
 Lots of memories to keep!
 Just standing here together,
 In black and white
 Makes me stop and wonder
 Can this be right?
 It seems like yesterday
 I walked into school-
 And almost immediately
 Felt like a fool.
 I must say though,
 That there isn't a doubt
 That being a senior
 Is what it's all about

Juniors

Class unity, that was the class of 1987's goal for this year. Under the leadership of President Matt Landon, Vice-President Wendy Kittredge, Secretary Kim Roberts, and Treasurer Chris Burns, the junior class was involved in many activities which raised their spirit, along with their funds. Some of their activities included a road race, building their float, and selling products.

In addition, the junior class held weekly class council meetings where students gave their ideas and suggestions. Class advisors Mr. Carellas and Ms. Lynch were pleased with the attendance and enthusiasm shown at these meetings. The class officers feel they successfully achieved their goal of class unity and raised money in their treasury for next year. Both officers and advisors are looking forward to a great senior year.

What's the force behind the success of this year's sophomore class? "Spirit!," exclaimed one enthusiastic class member. With guidance from advisors Ms. Broderick and Mr. Slate, the class of 1988 achieved their goals of class unity, fundraising, and having a good time.

The expectations of the class put the leadership of class officers, President Ellen Ferris, Vice-President Dennis Murphy, Treasurer Jonathon Cohen, and Secretary Melanie Graff to the test. Both advisors are optimistic about this class because they have a little more "oompf" than classes have had in the past. In contrast to the "sophomore doldrums," this year's sophomores are in "sophomore euphoria!"

"Sophomore Year"

Lost in L.H.S. -the sophomore syndrome- no longer freshmen, but not yet upperclassmen. This year of limbo is over for the class of '88. We've established ourselves as a class to take note of.

Sophomore year provided the opportunity to get involved:

The class of '88 was active and visible at all school activities.
We joined newspapers, yearbook, and service clubs.
Became active members on varsity and J.V. sports-no more freshman letters.
We discovered the ups and downs of sophomore year.
The times we will remember:
Fond memories of the Sophomore Semi-Formal.

And the times we would like to forget:
The thrill-a-minute fun of U.S. History I
"You mean we're studying the Puritans and the Pilgrims, again?"
The joys of taking PSAT's and ACH's and the anticipation of retaking them, many times.

There were some really good times:
Finishing swimming in gym class, forever!
Abusing the freshmen and denying that we were ever that immature.
Realizing that our four years here at high school are half completed.

But the best part of sophomore year, without a doubt, is knowing that the year of being lost is almost over, and soon we will be recognized as upperclassmen.

Unifying all of the Freshman faces filling up these forthcoming pages was a prime concern of class President Jamie Egan. He and his fellow class officers, Vice President Lynda Meador, Treasurer Mike Krumsiek, and Secretary Carrie Atkins, were up to dealing with this difficult task. "This shows that, by working together, we will be very successful in the years to come," said President Egan. Having formed a fine foundation at L.H.S., class advisors Jane Murphy and Lynda McShane can look forward to building on the class' initial success during the next three years.

"Freshman Year"

"Did you get lost on your first day?"

-That's OK.

"Did you buy an elevator pass?"

-You sucker.

Initiation into LHS is a difficult time:

Getting lost

Standing up when the ten-minute (freshman) bell rings.

Adjusting to the high school schedulehomeroom at a horrifying 7:45 a.m.

lunch before 11:00 a.m.-it's easier to digest if you are asleep

Learning to sprint through the halls in four minutes flat.

Certain things are characteristic of Freshman year:

Assigned studies.

Freshman teams.

First place floats-who else but freshmen actually work on the float?

But freshman year is also a special time:

A chance to start with a clean slate.

Students meet, come together, and become a class.

A unique spirit and personality emerges.

The trials and joys of this time create memories that can last a lifetime. The class of '89 has been strengthened by these bonds. They know, as well as everyone else, that there is no substitute for Freshman year.

"The twenty-one seniors on the team proved that 'winning isn't everything, but the will to win is.'" Those were the words of coach Michael Deary. The 1985 LHS football team certainly had the desire to win. The Lancers had a lot of pressure on their shoulders coming into the season. The 1984 team had forced '85 to prove that they could be number one-and they showed their superiority undeniably. The Lancers finished the season undefeated, captured the Suburban League title, and went on to win the ultimate feat: the Western Mass. Superbowl against Chicopee Comprehensive. Their accomplishments earned the team the notoriety and respect they deserved.

Many individual Lancers won recognition for their talent and contribution to the team's success. Senior tri-captain Bob Gianelly won the Dagenais Award, naming him the most valuable player in the Suburban League. The All-League team winners were on offense, Quarterback Kevin Cardinal, runningback Alvin Paige, offensive tackle Mike Murphy, and tight end Bob Gianelly and on defense defensive tackle Mike Murphy, and tri-captain defensive lineman George Joseph. Tri-captain Steve Grippo, and seniors Max Winkler, Mark Carroll, and Tony Calabrese also received honorable mention for All-League. The whole team was strong, though, and everyone was vital to the team's triumph. As one player explained, "there were no weaknesses; if there were, they were stronger than the weaknesses of the other teams."

The long season and grueling practices made dedication a crucial factor to the team's success. The Lancers of '85 definitely did not lack enthusiasm. Under the supreme leadership of coach Mike Deary and senior tri-captains Steve Grippo, Bob Gianelly, and George Joseph, the Lancers had an awesome season. We must say goodbye to 21 great seniors, but the '85 football team leaves their fans a lot to be proud of. As coach D'Agostino boasted, "every high school team after 1985 will be compared to this team." Way to go, Lancers! You're definitely #1!!!

Cheering for the victorious Lancer football team at the Superbowl highlighted the spirited career of the entire squad. Coached by Beth Metcalf, both the varsity and the junior varsity cheerleaders spent weeks perfecting their routines, cheers, chants, sidelines, and mounts.

Cheering for football and basketball, the cheerleaders demonstrated dedication and versatility, as well as enthusiasm. Varsity captains Heather Hartley and Amy Parker encouraged the squads to rally our athletes to victory.

The recent addition of a school-wide Pep Rally showcased the fine form and art of cheerleading. Generating immense school spirit, the cheerleaders performed cheers to entertain all.

In addition to cheering, the squads rallied to attain status as a sport rather than a club. Certainly their strenuous practice sessions and sportsmanlike attitudes are comparable to those of other Lancer teams.

The varsity and junior varsity teams could be heard practicing on the track or in the halls of Longmeadow High School. These dedicated Lancerettes began their practices before school opened in the fall. Each practice consists of a warm-up, jumps, and both old and new cheers. All the practicing paid off with each Lancer victory.

In the rain, the heat, the cold; through mud, sand, and raging underbrush, the cross-country teams experienced the loneliness of a long distance runner. Coached by Mr. Winseck and Springfield College student Terri Ellis, respectively, both the boys' and the girls' teams developed impressive records.

The recent addition of a girls' cross-country team proved their status as a competitive group. Shannon Gardella, a junior, led the team and set a new course record. Senior co-captains Katherine Casey, Holly Gallivan, Cathy Girr, and Catherine Stackhouse were also strong competitors. Junior Noelle Des-Lauriers and sophomores Jean Whitlock and Stephanie Downey maintained excellent performances throughout the season. Freshman sensation Kristin Welch exhibited amazing ability and potential for the future.

Mr. Winseck's boys' team also finished the season with flying colors. Led by juniors Mike O'Connor and Erik Mandell, the team also included outstanding seniors Dan Teree, Brian Downey, and Hugh Reiss. Sophomore Todd Ratner was also outstanding on this team full of impressive runners. Both teams are sure to maintain their excellent performances next year.

For the 18 members of the Lancer girls' field hockey team, there was no substitute for unified spirit, steadfast dedication, and skilled play. These three factors produced one of the best seasons ever for the Lancers, exceeding all initial expectations. Veteran coach Ann Simons led the team to a victorious 9-1-4 season; highlighted by a tie with Southwick, the defending Western Mass. champions, breaking their two year winning streak, and by a 1-0 win over East Longmeadow, beating the Spartans for the first time.

After losing to Southwick on opening day, they produced a 13 game unbeaten streak. They also had to contend with frustrating ties in which the team was often a heartbeat away from victory. Their ultimate frustration, however, was a 1-0 loss to Athol in Western Mass. quarterfinal play.

Seniors Chris Atkins and Amy Blanchard, a Springfield Newspaper player of the week, were the leading scorers, providing the Lancers' offensive ammunition. Skilled junior Andrea Doherty, seniors Abby Roth and Sarah Martel, and sophomore Cindy Dolce also propelled the team to victory. The team's strong point was “awesome defense”, as goalies Tina Rusiecki and Sue Gonzales allowed a mere five goals.

Coach Simons “didn't expect to do this well” because there were only four returning players this year. Their lack of experience was, however, offset by strong senior leadership provided by tri-captains Blanchard, Atkins, and Roth, and by “enthusiasm and all out hustle” from the five starting sophomores, including Tina Rusiecki, Amy Breslaw, Cindy Dolce, Meg Dineen, and Betsy Suzor. Team members, especially offensive players, improved since day one because of dedicated practice and play. “They have given 110 percent from the start to the end,” said Simons. Chris Atkins also credited their success to unity, stating, “We were like an extended family that pushed each other to do our very best out there.”

Ann Simons believes “the future looks outstanding” because of a successful JV team coached by Holly Garvey and the incredible array of underclassmen talent. While they have the potential to go far, it will be tough to surpass this year's girls, for their adept play and commendable personal qualities make the field hockey team of 1985 a L.H.S. success story.

Despite a slow start and multiple injuries, the LHS squad stressed team goals. According to senior co-captain Tonia Ouellette, "Once everyone pulled together as a team our scores went up along with our spirit." Despite a few close losses the team did manage to defeat strong teams such as Cathedral and East Longmeadow. Coach Judy Bouley assisted by Harvey Stockhammer, and senior co-captains Debbie Stone and Tonia Ouellette all helped lead the team to victories.

All of the gymnasts performed outstanding routines throughout the season. Junior Rebecca Kittredge and Freshman Dawn Gales performed in the all-around with senior Tonia Ouellette as an alternate. Other standouts included senior Debbie Stone and junior Lori Odierna on the vault, and junior Terri Marino and Sophomore Michelle LaRosa on the balance beam.

Although the team did not compete in the Western Massachusetts competition, several team members qualified individually. These included Rebecca Kittredge who placed first on the uneven bars and Dawn Gales who won medals in all events and placed second in the all-around. With these talented gymnasts, the squad anticipates another strong season next year.

They boys' gymnastics team also had a strong season. Second year coach Ford Madden, aided by senior co-captains Dan Tomasetti and Evan Kaplan, led the team to an impressive third place finish in the Western Mass. competition.

Outstanding performances were seen by seniors Dan Tomasetti, Evan Kaplan, Jim Griffin, Aaron Dobbs, and junior John Kelly. Impressive new members included Scott Canavan and Jay Eldridge. Coach Madden owes the team's success to strong leadership and looks forward to another powerful squad next year.

“We got it together!”

The girls' varsity soccer team was determined to work hard and improve themselves this year. The major force on the team was senior Heather Anderson whom one team member called a “phenomenal goalie.” Senior half-back Sue Rotondo and full-back Cecily Ashe were also superb additions to the team. Other seniors who kept up the rapport included Mel Wass, Jen Cummings, and Joanne Kotwicki. Juniors, forward Mari Siciliano and half-back Hilary Stone were highly-valued in the team's efforts. Sophomore forward Maria Cacciapouti was the team's high scorer and sophomore Ellen Ferris, who played “everywhere” was another productive team member. Katherine Moynahan, a freshman full-back, was an amazing player who achieved an all-league award.

The varsity team members worked diligently trying to improve their skills, not only after school, but also during Saturday morning practices. Their confidence was built up by the end of the season and people began to play more aggressively. They became more team-oriented, involved in what all team members were doing.

The most important and impressive aspect of this year's team was their excellent attitude. They refused to give up. Sue Rotondo claims that the team's many losses, “brought us closer together.” What seemed to make it all worth it was the banquet at the end of the season where they were satisfied with how hard they had worked.

Under the supervision of veteran coach, Ron Morissette, the Lancer soccer team was determined to improve themselves this year. Returning seniors Doug Cameron, Kerry Hanifin, and Todd Goodrich aided the team with their superior skills. Senior goalies Bill Carroll and Peter Klautky contributed excellent defensive abilities to the team. Other returning seniors included Marc Peruzzi, Marvin Lyon, George Finn, Eric Johnson, Joe Reichart, and Eric Hagberg. Sophomores Drew Collina, Bruce Linson, and Jeff Davis are sure to keep the team strong in upcoming years.

The team started out poorly, but steadily improved and "could beat any team around!" by the end of the season. With determination and spirit the Lancers fought hard against their toughest opponents, Cathedral and Classical. They achieved their goal of reducing opponents' scoring by building up a good defense.

On the JV field juniors Richie Wiseman, Doug Setan, and Sophomore David Godfreed were the backbone of the team, contributing experience and skill. J.V. began the season poorly, as Varsity did, but ended with a winning streak of five games.

Both teams reached their goals of improving their records this year. With determination, higher scores were the reward and once again the Lancers have proven their abilities.

"No pain-no gain"

The Lancer basketball team, under the expert guidance of head coach, Ron Morissette, and the dynamic leadership of senior captains Glen Godin and Mike Murphy, completed another successful season. This year, the boys' varsity team strove to repeat the amazing feat of last year's team, which lost by only two points in the Western Mass final against Minnechaug.

The team earned respect through their excellent ability, dedication, and team spirit. Despite losing several of last year's starters, the experience of the returning players showed through. Among those returning included Mark Curto, Bob Gianelly, Eric Purnell, Glen Godin, and Mike Murphy. Valuable underclassmen included Joe Auth, one of the team's leading scorers, Tom McGlaughlin, and Matt

Woods.

The L.H.S. basketball team knows that success in competition requires a team effort. Coach Morissette stated that one of the team's many attributes is that it doesn't revolve around one star player. The players worked hard at becoming a more team-oriented, rather than individual-oriented team, and it paid off!

The boys' junior varsity team, led by junior captains Chris Carey and Steve Brunette, also had a great season. Playing with the J.V. squad, the players gained experience and improved their skills. Although the seniors will be missed next year, the underclassmen are sure to live up to the great reputation of the L.H.S. basketball team.

"True talent isn't what the scoreboard says!"

This year's new basketball coach, Diane Lynch, is optimistic about her new team's skill. "We've had a slow start playing stronger teams up front, but this is a building year for us," she stated. The coach expressed her hope that the girls would finish with a winning season.

Senior forward Amy Blanchard is the leading scorer for the team, averaging 14 points per game. Senior Joanne Kotwicki is another key asset to the team at guard position. Other returning players included senior Tonia Ouellette, juniors Karen Curto, Maria Sicilano, and Andrea Doherty.

Newcomers to the Varsity team were Kiara McGuinness, Laura Tremble, Rachel Haley, and Kathy Moynahan. Led by upperclassman experience, the whole team remained enthusiastic about rebuilding the team after the loss of many of last year's senior starters.

The team recognized their lack of experience, but worked hard on their strength, speed, endurance, and good shooting skills. Each of the Lancers looks forward to developing this year's new talent into experienced championship players.

“No guts - No glory!”

Led by the inspiring talent of the tri-captains, Kevin Cratty, Bill Carroll, and Brett Suzor, the 1986 hockey team had a progressive season. Senior forward, Steven Coyle, displayed excellent skating and shooting skills. Valuable underclassmen included Gary Picard, one of the team's leading scorers, Andy Schaefer, Keith Grimes, Andrew Frosh, Derek Langlois, and Don Corsavo. These young team members hoped to gain more experience, and build optimism for future years.

The 1986 hockey team suffered from the loss of many important seniors who graduated last year. To this year's team members, the loss meant more work! Under the experienced guidance of coach Ray Suzor and the three captains, the Lancers strove to improve their passing, shooting, defensive and, most of all, teamwork skills.

Although the team weathered a few tough losses this year, their superb individual and team performances, and great enthusiasm led the way in many exciting games. Because of their Division I status, they faced still competition this season. But the team struggled for victory with continuous effort and dedication. This young team, consisting primarily of juniors and sophomores, worked together long and hard, and plans on coming back even stronger next year!

Hard work and dedication led the LHS swimmers to another successful season. In this individual sport the Lancers showed teamwork with combined women's and men's practices. These workouts took place in the afternoons and many mornings, and consisted of strenuous training in the pool and in the weight room. This togetherness helped improve individual skills, as well as team spirit and unity.

Returning coach Isabelle Fraser, with the help of senior co-captains Brian Shukan and Andy Moynahan guided the boys to their success. Top returning seniors included Andy Bassock and Brian Shukan in the free style, Greg Sellei in the breast stroke, and Chris Masi and Andy Moynahan in the back stroke. Underclassmen standouts included Jon Wesson in the breast stroke and Peter Reynolds in the free style. The team also showed young talent, including freshmen Mark Quattrochi, Mike Spink and Greg Sevak. The Lancer boys had an outstanding season, despite tough competition from strong teams such as Minnechaug. The team's depth and teamwork gave the Lancers the force needed for success.

The boys' success was matched by that of the girls' team. Led by returning coach Barbara Eagon and senior co-captains Kim Walsh and Debi Quattrochi, the Lancer girls upheld the competitive reputation of the LHS swim team. Returning talent this year included seniors Kim Walsh and Tina Rosenthal in the freestyle, and Debi Quattrochi in the breast stroke and individual medly. Top juniors included the versatile Lynn Trelease, Amy Wakemen, and Dana Quattrochi, and Shannon Collins in the distance free style. Also adding to their success were talented sophomores Kris Vanguasbeck, Athena Agnos, and Ari Matulowitz, and Freshmen Jen Wason and Jen Masi. With this abundance of talent the girls' team once again shined through.

The diving team was also impressive. Despite the absence of a coach, the divers worked hard and managed to motivate themselves. The top competitor for the girls was sophomore Jean Trelease and for the boys, sophomore Damon Thomas.

The snow had not even fallen in Longmeadow and the dedicated Lancer skiers were indoors training. Those skiers who survived the rigorous tryouts practiced daily for both the slalom and giant slalom by running and lifting weights. When the snow finally did arrive, the Lancer ski team was ready to hit the slopes.

The team practiced three times a week in Longmeadow and traveled to Berkshire East the other two days. Under the strong leadership of junior captain Hilary Stone, the girls performed well in competition. Standouts included juniors Ginny Gowd and Nellie Swan. The girls consistently placed second in their races. Rebecca Folta coached the girls as well as the boys. The boys raced consistently, with accuracy and speed, under the leadership of senior captain Ed Steiger, sophomore Benji Falk and junior Keith Keurzel. Freshman newcomer Mark Lance showed great potential and will be an asset to the Lancer Ski team in the years to come. In competition the boys skied like olympic racers going for the gold.

One team member felt the team really worked together, not just for themselves, but for the whole team as well. The dedication and hard work certainly paid off. The Longmeadow High School Ski Team is certainly one we can all be proud of!

The Lancer wrestlers combined talent, sportsmanship, and a lot of hard work to complete a successful season. Wrestling is one of the most demanding sports at Longmeadow High School. For close to three hours every day, team members worked out to get in peak physical condition.

Grueling workouts included scrimmaging, drilling, running, and callisthenics. Dedication and a strong desire to win pushed the team through their taxing practices.

Hard work definitely paid off. The Longmeadow High School squad defeated teams such as West Springfield, Granby, and Northampton. They also had high hopes for tournaments in which senior Dan Tomassetti and junior Pat Corrigan were sure to shine. Every class was represented on the varsity team this year, acquiring experience for future teams. Coach Stark worked with all the varsity and J.V. talent to build a strong, determined team, and to create another year of winners.

GOOD TIMES

Homecoming Spirit

Homecoming '86 will be remembered for a long time. Its events united each class and revived school spirit.

The Junior class started the day off with their first annual Road/Walk Race. Participants could either run five or two miles, or walk two miles. The race was a great success!

The traditional Daisy-Weed football game, where the girls play and the guys cheerlead, took place in the afternoon. The weather was gorgeous and many spectators turned out to see the electrifying game ... and check out those sexy cheerleaders! Once again the Weeds romped the Daisies, with a 22-6 victory. For the first time, the float competition occurred during half-time. The theme was "30 years of education" and each class drove their float around the tract. A surprising victory was won by the Freshman float depicting a calendar of years. The juniors came in second with their creative idea of feet walking up steps. The senior class talent was once again demonstrated by their extraordinary float.

In the air tonight

Phil Collins sung over the intercom during numerous homeroom periods, while posters with his song title "In the Air Tonight" appeared throughout the halls of LHS. The lights dimmed, the disco light twirled, Phil Collins sung "In the Air Tonight" once more, and the curtains opened for LHS's annual Variety Show. This year's themes involved entertainment "In the Air Tonight."

Organized by the Key Club, the Show raised $3,000.00 for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Although all Key Clubbers participated in some way, the credit belongs mainly to Corey Casden producer and co-producer, Joe Wyant, and co-directors, Bob Teree, Dan Teree, Dave Trudeau, and Bill Labowitz.

During auditions, acts were judged on originality, appearance, and talent. These characteristics were obvious in all the acts in the show. Some of the acts included the Italian Restaurant with Danny Martin and Marvin Lyon, The Time Warp, a senior act, and Jam Session, a collection of jazz musicians. Masters of ceremonies Steve Creelman and Jay Withgott put on a good show, and of course no spectator will forget Tony Templeton's memorable performance as Ed Grimly.

The V-Show brought to LHS the largest attendance ever in its history. As Cory Casden said, "The Show is unique because all the student body can participate and show off their talents."

"Camelot!"

"There simply is not a more congenial spot than here in Camelot." This year's play, directed by Michael Mucci and produced by junior, Shannon McKenzie, turned out to be a huge success. "Camelot" is the story of the legend of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table. The cast included Stephan Burkle as Arthur, Herrick Goldman as Merlyn, Lynda Cohen as Guenevere, and Stephen Crichton as Lancelot. "Camelot" included a sixty-person cast as well as Wind Ensemble. The play's huge success was shown on the last night of the play, when the cast performed before a full-house.

On the job

"Welcome to McDonald's Drivethru. May I take your order?" That phrase is familiar to mobile upperclassmen. The invisible person behind the voice may well be an L.H.S. student working at the Golden Arches. With current inflation, rising college tuitions, and auto insurance payments, more students are joining the work force. Whether bagging groceries at the Big Y or stacking books at the library, these students are earning money for various purposes, and the same time gaining valuable experience for the future. Money management, self-sufficiency, and the art of relating to supervisors and co-workers are among the many lessons learned. While some discover that jobs aren't always what they're cracked up to be, like the so-called "glorious" summer job of a lifeguard, many really enjoy working. As one enthusiastic student-laborer commented, "I lover everything about it!!"

T.G.I.F.

Friday afternoon-2:15 bell rings-another week gone by! But, WHAT IS THERE TO DO IN LONGMEADOW ON THE WEEKEND? For some, a senior jammer was the right thing Friday and Saturday nights. Others, usually underclassmen, resorted to the ever-popular Friendly's hangout. The high school also offered several options for bored individuals including Saturday Night Live, open for its second season at the high school. Students saw dramatic talent displayed by Drama Club's fall musical Camelot and spring one-acts, the senior class's play, Dracula Baby, and Key Club's Variety Show In the Air Tonight. It seems there was never a dearth of entertainment.

Saturdays, students could be seen cheering at football and lacrosse games. But, by the time Sunday rolled around, students once again hit the books to prepare for 7:45 Monday morning, when they wondered how soon the next weekend would come.

"Chorus is a learning experience, as well as a way to break up academics."-Lyrics member

Conductor Peter Thomsen explained this year's seven-concert schedule as an attempt to "showcase" each of its talented groups. "Each group felt pride for their own achievements.," said one singer.

The season opened on October 16 at the annual Chamber Music Concert in which Lyrics, a select thirty-five voice co-ed group, sang. The Fall Concert on November 26 featured Girls' chorus and Men's chorus, and included a piece combining the two for the first time. At the Winter Concert in December, Lyrics, fall I Cantori, a select 12-voice madrigal group, and conductor Michael Mucci's Concert Chorus all performed for a house packed with alumni. January included a trip to the middle schools to sing for the students, and in February all groups performed at the ever-popular Pop's Concert. In May, Lyrics traveled to the American Choral Directors Competition and also performed in its own Major Works Concert with members of the spring I Cantori.

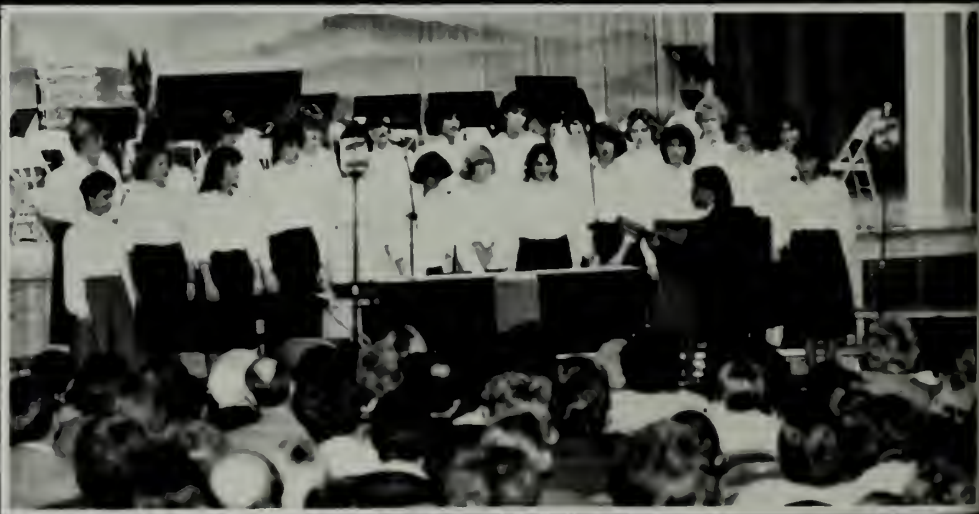

The season concluded with all groups singing at the final concert in June, when seniors sadly say goodbye and underclassmen are anxious for another year of music to begin.

Strike up the Band

There are three "bands" at Longmeadow High School: Concert Band, Wind Ensemble, and Jazz Ensemble. Mr. Burkle directs Wind Ensemble while Mr. Mucci conducts Concert Band and Jazz Ensemble. Freshmen usually start in Concert Band which is basically a training group. Mr. Mucci teaches these students techniques and skills, and helps them learn their music.

Wind Ensemble is the more advanced group. Students must audition for Mr. Burkle to choose the most talented musicians. These pupils are expected to learn their music faster. The most select group is Jazz Ensemble. This group plays jazz and rock. In the past, Jazz Ensemble has been at the top in Western Mass. competition. All three groups perform in concerts during the year.

Golden Tassles

Graduation Day gold tassels dangle from a number of graduation caps, the sign of a student belonging to National Honor Society. But club members do more than just wear this tassel for graduation. N.H.S. members carry responsibility for several key activities in the school including the Lancer bookstore and the free tutor service offered to students who need help. N.H.S. also presents merit scholarships to several of its members at the end of the academic year.

This year, National Honor Society inducted 69 new members into the group, making the total membership close to one hundred. Run by President Lynda Cohen, Vice President Michael Mann, Treasurer Brian Kimball, Social Secretary Abby Roth, Secretary Amy Gray, and Tutor Chairpersons Bob Teree and Rachel Gilman, N.H.S. is celebrating its thirtieth anniversary. Advisors Judy Pincus and Lolene Blake foresee this anniversary year as very exciting because of the club's enthusiastic members.

Key Club cares

"Caring is our way of life." Longmeadow High's 84 Key Clubbers have once again proven that they truly adhere to this Key Club motto. Under the fatherly guidance of Advisor Jim Climo and leadership of President Dan Teree, the members of the Kiwanis sponsored non-profit, service organization, which placed third internationally last July, provide over 10 hours of service each to the school and community each month.

Just as the seasons continue their never ending cycle, so to do Key Club's successful projects. Autumn was marked by football concession, an over 1000 item tag sale raising more than $1200, and Balloon Day. Winter's doldrums were lessened by their Toys for Tots campaign, Blood drive, and the famous Variety Show, the club's biggest project. In the spring, town reports were delivered, and Key Clubbers conducted a townwide cleanup campaign.

Less publicized projects, forming the club's backbone, included weekly visits to Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children, assisting the elderly at Emerson Manor, raking leaves, and weekly recycling and book return programs.

Climo emphasized that Key Club also benefits the members themselves; it is an exercise in character building, teaching students to budget their time, and the need for commitment.

Keyettes serve the community

"What counts most in life is what we do for others."-Dawn Wall

Where can you find an enthusiastic group of students ready to help out with anything from road races to haunted houses? Keyettes, of course! A service organization of 100 members, Keyettes are always ready to offer a helping hand. This year, projects included carnation sales, Red Cross blood-mobiles, monthly luncheons with their sponsor group, the Kiwanis Club, and weekly visits to Shriner's Hosptal. "The kids at Shriners are just like any others-they all want a little love and attention," says member, Kathy Murray. Keyettes also sponsor a child in Thailand through the Christian Children's Fund.

Not only do Keyettes play an active role in the community, but they are also deeply involved on an international level. LHS boasts the International President, Dawn Wall. The club also contributes largely to the international project, Adam Walsh, which helps in the research of missing and abused children.

This year the girls greatly appreciated the guidance of their enthusiastic new advisor, Lolene Blake. They enjoyed an exciting and productive year and look forward to another next fall.

Jet Jotter: On the scene

Maintaining a Tradition of Excellence

The Jet Jotter continued its ongoing tradition of excellence this year, as an "All Around Best Newspaper" and as the voice of our student body. "Publishing The Jet Jotter is part of our continuing attempt to bring wisdom and understanding to the students and citizens of Longmeadow," said veteran Advisor John Fitzgerald. Under Editor-in-Chief Anna Gelinas, Managing Editor Jennifer Casden, 60 writers, editors, artists, and photographers scoured our hallowed halls to put together this free, eight page monthly chronicle of Lancer Country. About 3,000 copies are circulated throughout the school and the community.

Aside from the traditional, exemplary news and sports coverage, as well as editorials and feature pieces, The Jet Jotter insightfully focused upon the impact of Proposition 2 ½ on L.H.S., conducted an exclusive interview with students who painted feet on town roads, discussed the legitimacy of South African apartheid policies and national merit programs, and conducted a canned food drive to aid the needy. All in all, it was a very productive year for the Jet Jotter staff!

Rough Draft: The Lighter Side

Move over Jet Jotter, now there's something . . . Well, now there's the Rough Draft. In its second year of existence, the Draft maintained its fine journalistic standing despite drastic funding cutbacks. Principal Angel Teixeira could not give the paper the money it received last year due to the return of Outlet, the school's creative publication. With an anonymous donation, editors-in-chief, Lynda Cohen, Holly Gallivan, and Jay Withgot began printing the Draft.

Advisors Mr. Kirkpatrick and Ms. Broderick supervised the student run publication. Although not in competition with the Jet Jotter, the Rough Draft surprised both students and faculty with its ability to discuss major issues of LHS in an unbiased and often humorous manner. As one of the editors commented "The Rough Draft exists to provide the news of LHS to the students, by the students, and for the students."

Masacksic-"The Original"

"There is no substitute!" This was the quote chosen as theme of this year's yearbook. And as you can tell, it was an appropriate choice. Many hours and dedicated people were needed to produce the yearbook and this year's staff gave 110 per cent. Led by Co-Editors-in-Chief Elise Wiener and Michael Mann, and advisor Robert Potvin, over 40 staff members, including photographers, writers, layout editors and artists worked to make the 1986 MASACKSIC the best ever. In addition to the countless hours the staff spent before and after school, working on the book, many members attended conventions and lectures, including a three-day workshop at Bryant College. "Of course we had some setbacks," comments Elise Wiener, "but I'm very proud of our success."

The artists of L.H.S.

The National Art Honor Society is Longmeadow High School's newest club. Led by president, Jane Janovsky, the artistic members meet twice a month to discuss such events as preparing displays for the showcases near the entrance to the school, and making directional signs for the hallways. The students also ambitiously plan future trips to museums, and even a possible sale of some of their own art work. Even though A.H.S. is still a young club, its members are very dedicated to making it a long-lasting success at Longmeadow High School.

They love the great outdoors

If you've just seen people walking down the halls with two-thousand pound back-packs, its not because they have a lot of homework. They're probably members of the L.H.S. outing club on their way to the parking lot to load up for an exciting trip. The outing club, led by president, Joe Reichart, and advisor, Ronald Hirsch, love to go wild" with such events as ski trips, canoe trips and back-packing trips. They take off into the wilderness usually one weekend a month to enjoy the outdoors and get away from the usual grind. Not such a bad idea, sometimes!

Exploring oriental culture

This was the second year Chinese was offered at Longmeadow High School. The members of the language class created a club led by Mrs. Chi-Wen Su. Co-President Jen Casden explained that the club's purpose was "to bring the students who study Chinese together to study the culture." At monthly meetings, students learn about Chinese culture by viewing slides of China, cooking traditional Chinese foods, and listening to speakers. They had T-shirts printed that said "Longmeadow High School" in Chinese. The club went to Chinatown in Boston and in conjunction with the Asian Civilization class have visited various museums. For the Chinese New Year, members of the class got together and formed a big dragon that danced around the school to the beat of a drum. The Chinese Club offers Longmeadow High School students a super opportunity to learn about an exciting different culture.

The travelers

American Field Service (AFS) is an international organization represented in high schools around the world. Katja Sagowski from Germany and Isabelle Raffaelly from France were two students who visited us this year. "It's a good experience and a good way to meet new people," says President Karen Mauri. Along with Vice-president Chris Rovelli, co-chairman Melanie Breslaw, treasurer Andrea Hyatt and secretary Carol Meador, the club is kept organized and running smoothly.

A.F.S. has adopted a four year old girl from Brazil named Francesca and send her money every month. Other activities include trips to New Jersey, Princeton and N.Y.C. A.F.S. is a fantastic experience to learn about other cultures and broaden your horizons.

Sharing our neighborhood

Metco and ABC are two organizations which offer "A Better Chance" to educationally unfortunate students. These students are able to make use of their intelligence and abilities in better surroundings than their previous school offered them.

Metco brings students from the city into suburban areas, where they can obtain a better education. The students actively participate in sports and activities.

In Longmeadow the ABC program is very prominent and has assisted in bringing many students to LHS and sending them on to college. ABC raises money by its Road Race and annual tag sale. Donations are received from various organizations and individuals.

Metco and ABC both enrich LHS with the students they bring here and enrich the lives of these students, as well.

Helping out in the Library

Library Aides

Who catalogues our books? Who organizes our encyclopedias? Who keeps the LHS library running so smoothly? Able to reach the highest bookshelf, faster than Dewey Decimal himself, and stronger than a bookworm, they are the Library Aides. Advised by Mrs. Pratt, a veritable Superwoman herself, these dedicated helpers come from all walks of high school life but share a common desire to help their fellow students. Maybe we all could follow the fine example set by the library aides in the line of volunteerism.

A Trans World Airlines jet with 145 passengers and eight crew members was hijacked in Athens, Greece, in June. The Sheite hijackers took the plane to Beirut, then to Algeria and then back to Beirut. Most of the hostages were released within days but the remaining 39 hostages were held for 17 days. One American hostage was killed.

Blue-collar troubadour Bruce Springsteen was the undisputed Boss of rock n'roll. His songs about Vietnam veterans, steelworkers and factory workers hit many responsive chords with all ages of Americans.

On January 28, the space shuttle Challenger exploded 75 seconds after lift off at Cape Kennedy, Florida. Aboard was Ronald McNair, Ellison Onizuka, Gregory Jarvis, Judith Resnik, Francis Scobee, Michael Smith, and Christa McAuliffe. McAuliffe was to be the first civilian and teacher in space. This national tragedy, the first in over 25 years at NASA, touched the heart of the nation who mourns the death of 7 of her finest heroes.

The war in the Mid-East continued in 1985. A distraught Moslem man hugs his son moments after they survived a car bomb explosion outside a West Beirut restaurant in late August. They are shown being hurried away from carnage by another man as cars burn in the rubble-strewn street.

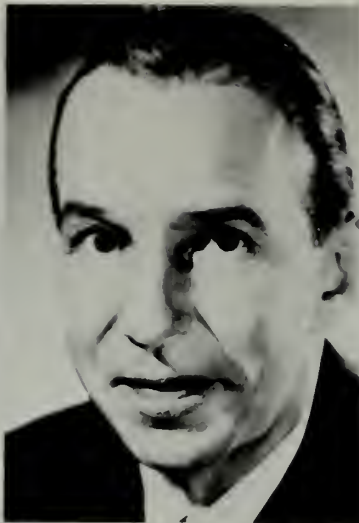

A series of devastating earthquakes rumbled through Mexico City in September and the death toll was in the thousands. Few in the metropolitan area of 18 million escaped the effects of the first quake, which registered 8.1 on the Richter scale; or the second quake, which measured 7.5.

Cincinnati Reds player-manager Peter Rose broke Ty Cobb's career hit record in September. The historic No. 4,192 hit was a single to left field on a 2-1 pitch from San Diego Padres right hander Eric Show with one out in the bottom of the first inning.

The space program moved ahead. Space walker James van Hoften stands tall on the end of the robot arm of the Space Shuttle Discovery after successfully launching the repaired Syncom satellite in September.

Four prominent actors died in late 1985: Orson Welles, (T-L) 70, of a heart attack; Lloyd Nolan, (T-R) 83, after a battle with lung cancer; Rock Hudson, (B-L) 59, after a battle with AIDS; Yul Brynner, (B-R) 65, of cancer.

Riots were an almost daily occurrence in South Africa as blacks protested Apartheid. In this photo, a white man runs from a jeering group of stone-throwing blacks in downtown Johannesburg as widespread violence continued to breakout throughout the country.

Ceremonies were held at various times during the year at the Vietnam Memorial in Washington to commemorate the tenth anniversary of the fall of the Saigon government in Vietnam. The Vietnam Memorial is inscribed with the names of more than 58,000 dead or missing soldiers from the Vietnam war.

Four Palestinian terrorists hijacked the Italian cruise liner Achille Lauro while on a Mediterranean cruise. One American was killed. After the ship was released the Egyptian government agreed to return the hijackers to the PLO. However, the hijackers were intercepted by American jets as they were flown out of Egypt and returned to Italy to stand trial.

President Reagan gives A-Okay sign from his hospital window in July after undergoing surgery to remove a cancerous tumor from his lower intestine. The 74-year old president was back on the job within weeks after the operation.

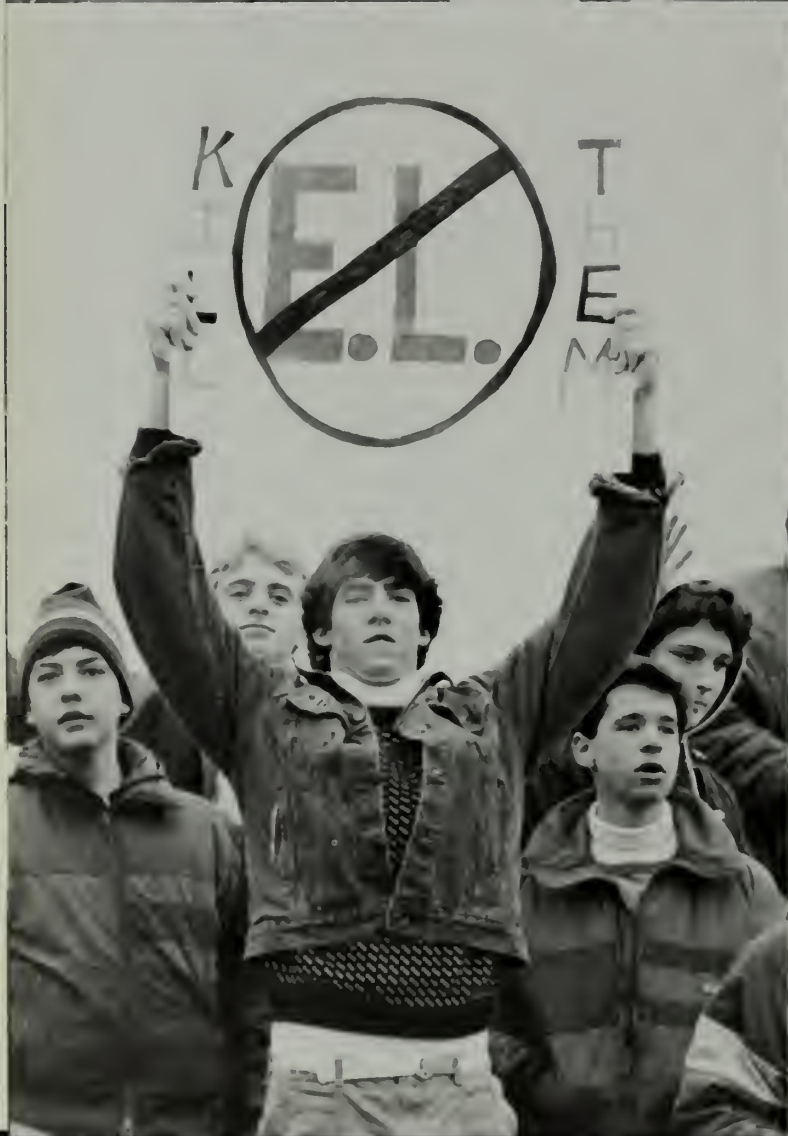

A Delta Airlines jetliner crashed near Dallas in August, killing 137 people. The plane was on a flight from Fort Lauderdale, Florida to Los Angeles with an intermediate stop at Dallas-Fort worth. Thirty-four people survived the crash but five died of injuries later. The plane encountered a severe wind shear as it plunged to the ground.

Administration

In order for the high academic standard to continue at Longmeadow High School, the administration must work very hard. Many dedicated individuals perform this task. The School Committee, the superintendant, the principal, and two vice-principals strive for this goal.

The School Committee is composed of seven elected persons who form the school policies. Superintendant Robert McKanna enforces these rules. The administrators are Principal Angelo Teixeira and Vice-Principals Dennis Pike and Daniel Lynch. They work directly with the students and faculty and oversee the daily functions of the school. Mr. Teixeira deals with the appearance of the school and discipline behavior. This year, the dedicated administrators worked to create the ideal educational experience for all.

Guidance

"What!", shrieked the horrified freshman, "I didn't sign up for honors physics!", as he scurried off to guidance. Everyone is familiar with the long lines in the guidance office in September, but what happens during the rest of the year? Scheduling is only a minor part of the counselor's job. The guidance department also helps students explore colleges and careers. Computers also help the guidance department. The computer prints out a list of suitable colleges or careers, determined through a detailed questionnaire.

Most importantly, guidance looks upon the students as people. Students come to discuss their problems confidentially. Solutions, however, are not given. Said Mr. Climo, "I don't have the answers; you do." It is the guidance team's function to help students discover the answers within themselves.

English

There is no substitute for Longmeadow High School's English Department. Versatile and highly qualified teachers of the department, under chairperson Russell L. Cobbs, are devoted to presenting a great diversity of studies. During freshman year, students read classics by Charles Dickens and William Shakespeare. Throughout sophomore year, students study American authors such as Arthur Miller and John Steinbeck. Junior year, is spent studying authors like Geoffrey Chaucer and Emily Brontë. Senior year, students move on to the study of poetry and philosophy.

Besides the required English courses, elective courses such as Creative Writing and Dramatic Arts are offered by the department. This diversity in courses allows the student to attain an intensive and broad education.

"Mathematics is the servant of applications" -David Daniels

Math

"How was the Gateway Arch in St. Louis designed? How much does it cost to operate your car?" asks a new Algebra II textbook. Such questions differ sharply from the "classic" word problems of past years. These "problems for today" symbolize the 12-member Math Department's primary goal of "showing at every opportunity how math can be applied to the real world," according to Department Chairperson David Daniels.

In addition to new goals, the department has "successfully" grappled with an infusion of new staff members, following the departure of three veteran teachers. Mrs. Lanelle Jalowiec has returned to LHS after receiving a Master's Degree at the University of Massachusetts, and working at Digital, in "the real world of computers," notes Daniels.

While 105 percent of the student body took math related courses in 1985-86, computer interest has dropped somewhat. Mr. Daniels commented, "Students have realized that taking a computer course is not synonymous with playing games."

Science

Where can you find students making explosions, dissecting frogs, mating fruit flies, and calculating how fast a Physics textbook falls through the air? The L.H.S. Science Department, of course.

Freshmen start their science career with either I.M.E., an Earth science course or Biology. The sequence continues to Biology or Chemistry sophomore year, and Chemistry or Physics junior year. The students, however, are only required to take two years in this department.

Science plays a big part in today's world, doing everything from curing the smallest disease to helping design the tallest skyscraper. The Longmeadow High School Science Department and staff are doing a great job giving this necessary background to the student body.

"We help the students bridge the language gap in the world."

Foreign Language

Latin has more value than just improving SAT scores, and French, Spanish, or German are exciting because each develops a communication system which is not "inherited" naturally. Mastering the Chinese alphabet is certainly a magnificent feat in itself.

Department head Mr. Justin, a German teacher, has been teaching at LHS since 1966. He feels that the cultural gains of learning another language are endless and that all students should experience them. LHS offers five languages and many excellent teachers to instruct them.

Many colleges require proficiency in a second language. Some of these college requirements include the ability to maintain a simple conversation, correct pronunciation, understand simple questions and statements, and deal with daily situations in the culture such as greetings, buying food, and asking directions.

LHS has provided for the student in its wide choice of languages the opportunity to meet these college requirements and to experience this "whole new world."

History

When you think of history, you think boring, right? Not necessarily! The Longmeadow High School History Department offers a plethora of interesting classes, ranging from Ancient European History to Contemporary Issues. Although U.S. History I and II are the only required courses, many students opt to take advantage of the available electives, such as Russian History. All sophomores take the same level History I, but selected juniors take the Advanced Placement History II course, which gives them a taste of college. History I and II classes meet in the open space, while the electives are held in regular classrooms. The open space provides students with an open classroom, making a more relaxed atmosphere which encourages students to participate actively. Because of the closeness of the classes, the teachers can observe their colleagues, and see how each class is run. The most important part of the department, however, is the teaching staff. Interesting classes, combined with dedicated teachers, make history a strong part of LHS curriculum.

Business

Business is only one of the extensive Career Education programs offered at Longmeadow High School. It gives students a chance to receive a head start on future career plans by getting a taste of the business world.

Mr. Gary O'Sullivan heads the business department and its various classes. Classes dealing with different aspects of the business world are offered to interested students. Aspiring students start with Introduction to Business I and Typing I, and move on to Word Processing Applications, Legal Typing, Salesmanship, or Secretarial Procedures. The business courses present super opportunities for amateur enterprisers to start the climb to success.

Practical Arts

Because there are so many jobs to choose from, LHS has a wide variety of courses for interested students. In Home Economics, students can learn to cook up a storm or stitch garments in such courses as Regional and International Foods or Clothing and Foods I. There's an Exploring Childhood I and Family Life Education, an educational look at young children. This department teaches skills needed for day to day living. There are other fields like architecture, mechanical work, home repair, and engineering in the technological areas. Courses go from Metal I to Technical Drawing to Small Engine Repair. The classes give the basic skills and the chance to experiment with possible future careers. Practical Arts offers LHS students a chance to pursue almost any career they wish before leaving high school.

"Fine arts balance the analytical with the aesthetic"

Fine Arts

The Fine Arts department, chaired by Wilfred Burkle, provides a welcome relief from the constant academic grind. This special world, encompassing music and art, is a haven for aesthetic experiences; a creative outlet in which there are no correct answers. Burkle believes, however, that fine arts also carry over into the academic world by providing "learning skills, the need to work toward a goal, and self-discipline."

The music department, guided by Peter Thompson and Michael Mucci, showed its superiority on the state-wide level as 38 musicians participated in the Western District Concert, with many recommended for All-State groups. Locally, the choruses, orchestra, and lyrics, consisting of the best singers, captivated audiences at seasonal concerts.

The diversified art department, ranging from photography to painting and printmaking, consists of 2D and 3D classes. Students formed a chapter of the National Art Honor Society. Edith Broderick believes art makes students "more sensitive to their surroundings" - a welcome asset, both in and out of, academia.

"It's a change in pace! and more."

In addition to its excellent academic opportunities, Longmeadow High School also offers an unbeatable physical education program. Although students are required to take gym throughout high school, most find it a nice "substitute" for their regular academics. Gym class gives students the opportunity to try new and different sports or to improve their skills in sports in which they are already familiar. Students receive instructions with the rules and strategies of a sport as well its origin and history.

Department Head Robert D'Agostino feels it is important to teach a wide variety of sports. More popular classes include tennis, basketball, outdoor ed., and volleyball. To the students, P.E. is a time for enjoyment along with learning.

Special People

Who are the Special People? These are the persons who do their jobs at LHS "behind the scenes." The school could not function properly without their assistance.

Where would we be without the cafeteria staff to provide us with such excellent cuisine? Without office secretaries, many of us would not know where, when, or what we are supposed to be doing. Our custodial staff is to be praised for somehow managing to clean up after us. Our nurse is always ready to help us feel better. Dr. Lamarre and Mrs. Young are always prepared to lend us a hand when needed. Their courses on SAT review and reading are necessities to students. With all these very special people working for us, how can we go wrong?

There is no substitute for Masacksic 1986

When we accepted the position of Editors-in-chief of Masacksic 1986, we did not know what we were in for. Missing photos, forgotten copy assignments, lost pages, and feuding staff members were problems we learned to deal with every day. We did know, however, that we were going to make this yearbook the best ever, and we think we have succeeded. But, we owe our success to all of our staff members for their time and dedication. Many, many hours have been spent to produce this book and we would like to take this opportunity to thank some very special people.

Farewell to the Class of '86

This one's for you
The Class of '86.
In all my school years
I've never seen a better mix.

We've been through it all,
all in just four years,
we've laughed through the good times and have cried sad tears.

Growing up and moving on we hold these memories forever.
Don't forget these special years,
the times we've spent together.

Now graduation is almost here,
Senior Week is on its way,
time to make the promises
wishing we'd go on day by day.

Remember these golden years
'cause they'll never be the same, and there are many more to come in life, the longest game.

So, I guess this is good-bye,
time to shed the tears,
I'm glad we are so close after these four years.

Amy Parker
